Cisco Systems, Inc. is the worldwide leader in networking for the Internet. Cisco's Internet Protocol-based (IP) networking solutions are the foundation of the Internet and most corporate, education, and government networks around the world. Cisco provides the broadest line of solutions for transporting data, voice and video within buildings, across campuses, or around the world.

Cisco was founded in 1984 by a group of computer scientists from Stanford University. Since the company's inception, Cisco engineers have been prominent in advancing the development of IP- the basic language to communicate over the Internet and in private networks. In addition to technology and product leadership, Cisco is recognized as an innovator in how business is conducted. The company has been a pioneer in using the Internet to provide customer support, sell products, offer training, and manage finances.

KCTCS and Cisco have partnered to raise information technology skill levels of Kentucky's workforce. Ten regional Cisco Networking Academies have been established to train faculty on the concepts of wide-area networking. Under the guidance of these regional academies, approximately 150 local academies have been established at secondary and postsecondary institutions throughout the Commonwealth to train students to network computers to local and wide area networks including the Internet. In addition, a Cisco Authorized Training Center - Sponsored Curriculum, one of twenty-two centers in the U. S. to train faculty in areas such as Sun UNIX Operating Systems, ADOBE Web Development Products and curriculum in A+ certification, networking+ Certification, Sun Java, and cabling and wiring has been established. Cisco was honored in 2000 as a KCTCS Benefactor for their $1.4 million gift of equipment and training.
